THE DESCRIPTION of the activities and teaching aids

Once upon a magical great time... a schoolyard , a garden and 23 happy children. Many sparrows nesting in the trees in the garden and there raise their chicks. Children in second grade, admiring sparrows every day and they love their work. But winter is here! And house sparrows need more resistant ...

A joy to have arisen in the face of little children who, the next day brought news release this material and have started working with the thought of approaching cold days and sparrows or to become homeless. We used large plastic bottles , glue, different fabrics , paint, old pencils , sticks and straw juice. We used the technique of bricolage , we cut and we assembled the pieces originally.

We first painted bottles then we cut the entrance hole and then carefully decorated house .When we finally have boxes hanging on the wall of schoolyard.

The children know that those birds are sensitive beings like us, they are so cute and fragile and they would enjoy if someone is interested in them.

Amusement? The most beautiful word for this activity.... Does sparrows will come in our inboxes, said a sweet girl if I do not go to the roof to check the rain, proposed a thoughtful boy or ... what would be if we give a name to the houses, and so emerged: GIRL'S HOUSE, BOY'S HOUSE , THE HOUSE WITH CRAYONS. Have where to choose suitable house sparrows to their liking?

Our work has promoted the spirit of initiative, originality and creativity through interactive methods used and....children and sparrows became friends.
